E-mail address: jenseelig@gmail.com

Website: www.jenseelig.com

Age: 39

Occupation: policy and research analyst / government relations

Residence: Salt Lake City

Years at residence: 14

Qualifications: I have been involved in politics and public service for more than decade at a policy-making and leadership level. I was a policy and research analyst for the Salt Lake City Council between 1995 and 2000, handling such sensitive and critical issues relating to crime control, budget compliance within the administrative office, community relations, and public meetings involving the City Council. I served as a policy and research analyst for the Salt Lake City Mayor's office, with primary responsibility for the Americans with Disabilities Act and for a broad range of policy issues. I am currently the Deputy Director in Government Affairs for 1-800 CONTACTS. Within the community, I served for four years on the Board of Directors of Project CARE (Community Action to Reach the Elderly) and assessed community problems related to the elderly. I was also a board member of the Literary Action Center, which promoted community awareness about adult illiteracy. I was also a Meals on Wheels volunteer and am active on the Rose Park Community Council.

I am currently finishing work toward a Ph.D. in political science at the University of Utah. I have a Master of Public Administration degree from the University of Utah and a B.A. in English from the University of Louisville.
